This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. SCOTLAND.

SEALS OF SOVEREIGNS.

DUNCAN II., King of Scots. A.D. 1094, 1095.

14,767. Sulph. cast from an imperfect impression in possession of the Dean and Chapter of Durham. About 2⅛ in. when perfect. [xlvii. 2.]

The king on horseback to the r., wearing a kind of trellised hauberk, conical helmet and nasal; in the r. h. a lance with pennon of two points; in the l. h. a kite-shaped shield, held by a strap showing the interior. Horse trappings: a small plain saddle with high curved pommel and crupper, breast band or poytrail, and head-gear.

✠ SIGILL . . . . . ORVM.

Desc. in Laing's Descriptive Catalogue of Impressions from Ancient Scottish Seals, 1890 (henceforward in this volume referred to as Laing's Catal.), No. 1, where the full legend is suggested to be: Sigillum Duncani Deo Rectore Regis Scotorum.

EDGAR, King of Scots. A.D. 1098–1107.

14,768. [circ. A.D. 1100.] Sulph. cast from an imperfect impression in possession of the Dean and Chapter of Durham. About 2⅜ in. when perfect. [xlvii. 3.]

The king seated on a throne or stool of State with its legs terminating in eagle's claws, his arms raised from the elbow, wearing a loose mantle falling in folds betw. the knees, and fastened with a brooch on the r. shoulder. Indistinct crown of trefoils or fleurs-de-lis with a cross on the top (?). In the r. h. a sceptre with the end resting on the knee; in the l. h. a sword, held not by the grip, but near the point, the handle resting on the l. knee. The feet on a rectangular footboard.

[✠ IM]AGO EDGARI [S]COTTORVM BASILEI.

Laing's Catal., No. 2.

MATHILDIS, or MAUD, of Scotland.
See VOL. I., No. 788.

ALEXANDER I., King of Scots. A.D. 1107–1124.

14,769. [circ. A.D. 1112.] Sulph. casts from a good but imperfect impression. About 2⅛ in. when perfect. [xlvii. 5, 6.]

Ø. The king on a horse to the r.; hauberk with mail of flat rings, fitting close to the body, with short skirt; below it, the tunic; chausses of similar work, and spur. Conical helmet with nasal; beneath it, a hood or coif de mailles, attached to the hauberk, and thrown back to show the face. In the r. h. a gonfanon with three streamers;* in the l. h. a kite-shaped shield, held by the inner strap, showing inside only. Horse trappings: a breast band with ball-fringe or rings dependent, small saddle, stirrup, and head-gear with a kind of nasal projection.

ALEXAND[ER DEO RE]CTORE REX SCOTTORV[M].

Beaded borders.

℟. The king enthroned, with close-fitting cap-shaped crown, having on each side a pendent tie or chin-strap of three buttons, or a trefoil-shaped ornament. The details of the upper part of the crown are indistinct; tunic with tight sleeves, and cloak fastened at the neck and adorned with a broad orphrey showing circular studs or knobs. In the r. h. a broadsword, the point inclined towards the king's head. In the l. h. an orb with long cross pattée. Throne cushioned and square; rectangular footboard. In the field on the r.-h. side (and probably also on the l.-h. side now broken away) a

* Mr. A. Wyon, F.S.A., in a paper on the Great Seals of Scotland in Journ. Brit. Arch. Assoc., 1889, vol. xlv. p. 98, thinks that the almost illegible design on the flag may represent St. Andrew standing in front of his cross, the head towards the lance.

roundle or plaque charged with an indistinct device, perhaps a rosette or fleurette of eight leaves.

+ ALEXANDER DEO RECTORE REX SCOTTORV.

Beaded borders.

Laing's Catal., Nos. 3, 4.

DAVID I., King of Scots. A.D. 1124–1153.

14,770. Light-brown, varnished: very imperfect. About 2¾ when perfect. [L. F. C. xxx. 1.]

For description, see last seal.

14,771. [A.D. 1140.] Sulph. cast from a very imperfect impression among the charters belonging to the City of Edinburgh. [xlvii. 7, 8.]

Ø. Similar to that of Alexander I., No. 14,769.

....T....M.

Probably from the same matrix, with alteration of the name only.

℟. Similar to that of Alexander I., No. 14,769.

+ DAV.... ... .V.

Engr. in Anderson, Diplomata Scotiæ, pl. xii.; descr. Laing's Catal., Nos. 5, 6; Wyon, Journ. Brit. Arch. Assoc., 1889, xlv. 106.

MALCOLM IV., King of Scots. A.D. 1153–1165.

14,772. [circ. A.D. 1156.] Sulph. cast from a very imperfect impression among the Panmure charters. About 2¾ in. when perfect. [xlvii. 10, 11.]

Similar, apparently, to the seal of Alexander I., No. 14,769.

Ø. ....OLVM .....

Laing's Catal., Nos. 7, 8; Wyon, Journ. Brit. Arch. Assoc., ut supra, p. 106.

WILLIAM "the Lion," King of Scots. A.D. 1165–1214.

14,773. [circ. A.D. 1165–1214.] Reddish-brown: fine; showing mark of the studs used for steadying the matrix. App. by plaited strands of green silk. 3⅛ in. [Cott. ch. xviii. 13.]

Ø. The king, a somewhat tall and thin figure, enthroned, wearing a sleeved tunic and long mantle fastened at the throat; cap-shaped crown. In the r. h. a long sword, with groove or channel along the blade, held nearly vertically; in the l. h. an orb surmounted with a long cross pattée. The throne is cushioned, with projecting bench ends, sides sloping inwards towards the top, small crook-like projection at each corner of the base, and rectangular footboard.

+ WILLELMVS DEO RECTORE REX SCOTTORVM.

℟. The king, riding on a springing horse to the r., and wearing conical helmet with nasal projection, and hauberk. In the r. h. a long lance-flag with three streamers sloping forwards (the flag in the annulus for the legend), convex shield with central spike or umbo, carried in front, and with its strap or guige slung over the neck of the rider. Horse trappings consist of a plain saddle, high pommel, and crupper, with stirrup and breast-band or poytrail. From underneath the horse is seen the scabbard of a sword hanging from the king's l.-h. side.

WILLELMVS DEO RECTORE REX SCOTTORVM.

ALEXANDER II., King of Scots. A.D. 1214–1249.

14,777. [A.D. 1229.] Pale-reddish-brown: originally fine, edge chipped. About 3¼ in. [Cott. ch. xviii. 2.]

Ø. The king, enthroned, in girdled tunic, and loose mantle drawn up over the left knee and resting on the r. knee, then over the cushion on the r.; small crown or cap; in the r. h. a broadsword, with channel or groove along the blade, held obliquely towards the head; in the l. h. an orb with long cross having two knops in the stem. The throne cushioned, front part diapered, and ornamented with small arches at the base rectangular footboard also diapered. On each side beyond the throne, a tree of slender foliage.

✠ ALEXAND[ER] DEO ⁝ R[ECTO]RE ⁝ REX ⁝ SCOTTORVM.

℟. The king riding on a horse stepping to the r., and wearing a hauberk of mail, surcoat with flowing skirt, flat-topped helmet, sword with deep groove in the r. h.; and convex shield, charged with a lion rampant, slung by the guige over his neck, plain spur. Horse-trappings are saddle with high cantle, poytrail with five pendants, reins, and head-gear; on the bordered saddle-cloth behind the cantle, a lion rampant contourné.

ALEXANDER III., King of Scots. A.D. 1249–1286.

First Seal.

14,787. [A.D. 1252.] Sulph. casts tinted red, from fine but imperfect impression. Probably about $3\frac{3}{4}$ in. when perfect. [xlvii. 19, 20.]

Ø. The king, with tunic, ermine-lined cloak, and sword with deep groove in the r. h., seated on a carved throne without back. On the front of the throne two quatrefoil panels enclosing lions' faces. Footboard indistinct.

Legend wanting.

℟. The king on a horse to the r. Hauberk of mail, loose surcoat, sword in the r. h., convex shield slung over the neck. Armorial bearings: apparently a lion rampant, within a double tressure flory counter-flory. Horse is caparisoned, the arms being a lion rampant (reversed) within the royal tressure as above. Reins held in the king's l. h.

Legend wanting.

Laing's Supplemental Catal. (1866), Nos. 3, 4, and engr. in plate ii., figs. 1, 2.

Second Seal.

14,788. [A.D. 1265.] Sulph. cast from a fine but imperfect impression among the Melrose charters. $3\frac{7}{8}$ in. [xlvii. 17, 18.]

Ø. The king enthroned, wearing a tunic, and loose overdress with broad sleeves extending a little below the elbow. Mantle from the left shoulder. In the r. h. a long sceptre foliated at the top; in the l. h. the cord or tie of the mantle. Crown with three fleurs in sight. Long hair and moustache. The throne composed of elaborate tabernacle-work, with back, rising sides, and front pieces adorned with arcading, cresting, and quatrefoil and trefoil openings; and with four standards, each topped with a knop and seeded fleur-de-lis. Footboard, on an arcaded corbel, is cushioned. Under foot two small animals, perhaps wyverns, facing towards each other, with the long tail of each terminating in a trefoil of the background. Background replenished with slipped trefoils. Compare the throne on the great seals of Henry III. and Edward I., of England, Vol. I., Nos. 119–132.

[A]LEXANDER ⁝ DEO ⁝ RE[CTO]RE ⁝ ⁝ REX SCOT[TO]RUM.

Beaded borders.

℟. The king, on a horse galloping to the r. Hauberk of mail, loose surcoat, flat-topped helmet with grated vizard, and fan-plume. In the r. h. a broadsword with deep groove or channel along the blade ; convex shield slung by the strap over the king's neck. The armorial bearings are a lion rampant within a bordure, indistinct, perhaps for the tressure as described below. Horse caparisoned on the neck and body, and a fan-plume on the head. The arms on the caparisons : a lion rampant (reversed) within a double tressure flory counter-flory. The reins held in the king's l. h. Background as in the obv.

GREAT SEAL, "APPOINTED FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REALM,"

after the death of King Alexander III.,
A.D. 1286–1292, and used by Edward I. of England.

14,789. [A.D. 1292.] Light-brown or uncoloured : originally fine, now very imperfect. [Harl. ch. 43 D. 1.]

For description and dimensions, see next seal, No. 14,790.

Ø. . . . . A . . . . .

℟. . . . . EGNI

14,790. [s. d.] Light-brown or uncoloured : fine, now injured, imperfect at lower part. 3⅛ in. [xxxiv. 28.]

Ø. St. Andrew, with nimbus and tunic, crucified on a saltire cross. Background replenished with a regular series of slipped trefoils or shamrocks, perhaps the national flower of Scotland before the adoption of the thistle. It occurs rather often as an ornamental detail in the background of Scottish seals, as will be seen in the subsequent pages of this volume.

14,791. Sulph. casts from No. 14,790. [xlvii. 25, 26.]

Laing's Catal., Nos. 17, 18.

14,792. Sulph. casts from No. 14,790. Edge of obv. chipped. [D.C., B. 2, 3.]

JOHN [BALLIOL], King of Scots. A.D. 1292–1296.

14,793. [s. d.] Green, mottled in places: fine, sharp, edge slightly chipped. App. by plaited cords of faded red and green silk. 4 in. [Cott. ch. v. 32.]

Ø. The king enthroned, with robes and crown not unlike these details in the seal of Alexander III. In the r. h. a long sceptre, terminating at the top with extensive foliated ornaments; the l. h. on the breast, holding the cord of the mantle. Crown of three leaves in sight; long hair curled. The throne elaborately carved, with back, sides, front, and projecting footboard carved with arcading, quatrefoil tabernacle work, foliage along the base of the seat, and four upright finials of crocketted carving. In the field on the r. h. a shield of arms: an orle, BALLIOL; on the l. h. a similar shield; a lion rampant (perhaps with queue fourchée).

[✠] IOHANNES ✠✠✠ DEI ✠✠✠ GRACIA ✠✠✠ REX ✠✠✠ SCOTTORVM.

Beaded borders.

℟. The king on a horse, galloping to the r. Hauberk and chausses of mail, loose flowing tunic. Crowned helmet with grating, three-fourths to the front; in the r. h. a long grooved sword inclined towards the head. Convex shield of arms: ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND, slung over the neck. Horse caparisons charged with armorial bearings as above, but reversed. The horse's hoofs armed with spiked nails. The reins held by the king in the l. h.

IOHANNES ✠ DEI ✠ GRACIA ✠ REX ⁘⁘ SCOTTORVM.

Beaded borders.

Anderson, l. c., pl. xliii.; Wyon, l. c., p. 110.

14,794. [A.D. 1292.] Sulph. casts from a fine impression in the General Register House, Edinburgh; edge slightly chipped. [xlvii. 31, 32.]

Laing's Catal., Nos. 19, 20.

14,795. [A.D. 1292.] Sulph. casts from the same. [D.C., B. 4, 5.]

From the charges on the shield and caparison on the rev., it is clear that the shield on the l.-h. side of the king in the obv. does not stand for the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND. It is probably a family coat.

GREAT SEAL, APPOINTED FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REALM,

after the flight of John Balliol, sometimes called the Second Seal of that king.

14,796. [A.D. 1301–2.] Sulph. cast from a very imperfect impression issued by "John Souly, Custos Regni Scotiæ." Upper part wanting. About 3¼ in. when perfect. [xlvii. 33.]

The king, with royal robes charged on the front with the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND; seated on a throne, composed of the long thin necks, heads, and legs of dogs (?) or lions; in the r. h. a sword, held obliquely outwards; his feet on a projecting footboard or stool, diapered. Background diapered lozengy, with a quatrefoil in each interstitial space.

. . . . . EI : GRACIA : REG . . . . . .

Beaded borders.

Laing's Suppl. Catal., No. 7; Wyon, l. c., p. 110. Laing attributes this seal, notwithstanding its date of use, to the national party in Scotland "after the surrender of John Balliol in 1296, when the great seal used by that sovereign was withdrawn; his authority was, however, still recognised in Scotland." It appears very improbable that this is a seal of John Balliol: the details of the throne seem to point to a period subsequent to his reign; and the use of the genitive Reg[is] on the fragmentary legend confirms this view. Douët d'Arcq (No. 10,253) calls this seal (the original impression being in the Archives de l'Empire attached to a document dated 23 Feb. 1301) the "Sceau de la Régence," and there is a clause in the deed designating it as "Sigillum regimini Scocie deputatum." From the general French style of art exhibited in the design, and its resemblance in some respects to the seal of Philip III., King of the French, there can be little doubt that it was made in France, and in that respect is, of course, connected with John, who retained the title of King of Scots while in exile in that country. The original seal bears on the reverse, as a counterseal, an impression of the seal of John de Soules, Knt., the "Custos regni" at this period. For an impression of this, see xlvii. 1175 (or Laing's Catal., No. 750), which will be described in its proper place further on.

EDWARD I., King of England.

Seal appointed for the government of the Realm of Scotland.

14,797. [circ. A.D. 1298–1306.] Sulph. casts from a fine impression; the obv. chipped on the l.-h. side. 3⅜ in. [xlvii. 23, 24.]

Ø. The king enthroned and vested, in a very similar manner to the design of the great seal of Edward I., for England (see Vol. I., No. 132, and plate ii., No. 134). The orb with cross is here omitted, the small lions at the sides of the throne, leaping up towards the king, are also removed, and some of the details of the sceptre-top and carved work of the throne varied.

First Seal.

14,798. [A.D. 1316.] Opaque light-brownish-white or uncoloured: fine, cut from a deed; showing marks of the pins or plugs used to fasten the matrix. 3¾ in. [Cott. ch. xix. 4.]

Ø. The king enthroned, somewhat after the design of the previous seal of Edward I. of England; long sceptre fleur-de-lizé in the r. h., and orb with long cross in the l. h.; the feet on two long-tailed dragons or lizards. The carving of the throne more elaborate and of bolder work.

The use of the slipped trefoil as a stop betw. the words of the legend is remarkable, being evidently a survival or re-adoption of the same device first used on the seal of Alexander III. (see No. 14,788).

14,801. [A.D. 1326.] Light-yellow or uncoloured: originally fine, edge now imperfect, parts of legend broken away. 4 in. [Cott. ch. xix. 5. On the label a memorandum that the charter from which this impression has been cut was dated "at Aberbrothock" (Arbroath), 10 Jan., 20 R. R. I.]

Ø. The king enthroned, with loose vestments: in the r. h. a long sceptre with two knops on the stem, and foliated top; the l. h. on the breast, the first and second fingers extended, holding the cords of the mantle, which just appears on the shoulders; long curled hair; crown of three leaves or fleurs in sight. The throne composed of two long recurved necks and heads of dogs (Wyon) or dragons (Douët d'Arcq) on each side, with corresponding feet; over it is thrown in ample folds a cloth of state diapered, and ornamented with an embroidered orphrey. Footboard supported on an elegantly carved corbel or bracket, and corbel-table, adorned with foliage and flowers.

Ø. Resembles in many respects the obv. of the sixth great seal of Edward III. of England (see Vol. I., No. 186, and plate ii., figs. 5, 6). The king enthroned, with crown fleury of five leaves or fleurs, sceptre terminating with a foliated ornament, the l. h. reposing on the breast. Above, a richly carved triple gothic canopy, the central part terminating in a hexagonal turret, embattled; each of the side canopies being furnished with a crocketted pinnacle. At each side a projection of tabernacle work on a traceried bracket, containing an arched niche of five cusps, in which is an eagle rising with wings ouvertes, seen in full face foreshortened, supporting in front a shield of the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND. Over the embattled cresting of the projection, on each side, a watchman or man-at-arms, in armour, leaning forward. In base, below the corbel supporting the footboard, a hummocky cloud, hills or rocks.

FIRST SEAL (?).

14,830. [s. d.] Sulph. casts from a fine impression belonging to Cosmo Innes, Esq. 4 in. [xlvii. 87, 88.]

℣. The queen, with mantle, crown, and sceptre fleur-de-lizé, seated on a throne, elaborately carved and ornamented after the Italian or Renaissance style, with projecting footboard, and two ornamental columns in front supporting a tester.

MARIA ✠ DEI ✠ GRACIA ✠ REGINA ✠ SCOTORV̄.

℟. A shield of arms of ornamental shape : SCOTLAND. Encircled in the lower half with the collar of the Order of the Thistle. Ensigned with a crown of three fleurs-de-lis with two crosses pattées betw. them, and four intermediary trefoils, jewelled fillet, cross bands over the toque crocketed, and over all at the crossing a cross pattée. Supporters, dex. and sin., an unicorn segreant, gorged with a coronet, chained, tail flory or fourchée, holding a lance-flag charged with the St. Andrew's saltire cross raguly of SCOTLAND, enfiled with a crown (that on the dex. flag uncertain). In base, on the mount with herbage on which the supporters stand, a St. Andrew's cross, raguly, of which only the lower moiety is shown, the rest passing behind the shield. From this mount spring two thistle-flowers, leaved, passing to the r. and l. below the collar. In the background on each side a thistle-flower, slipped and leaved, ensigned with a crown.

Stops uncertain, perhaps quatrefoils or fleurs-de-lis.

℟. A small counterseal. 1⅛ in. diam. A shield of the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND. Ensigned with an open arched crown of two trefoils betw. three crosses, and two demi-fleurs at the sides, six bands meeting in the centre at the top, jewelled fillet. At each side of the shield a wavy scroll of foliage.

Laing, Catal., Nos. 60, 61, with legend: MARIE DEI GRATIA REX SCOTORUM, in error. Wyon, l. c., p. 243. Not given in Anderson's Diplomata.

THIRD SEAL.

For Scottish affairs, after the Queen's marriage with Francis II., King of France.

14,832. [A.D. 1561–2.] Light-brown or uncoloured: indistinct in places. 4¼ in. [Add. ch. 14,505.]

Ø. Design suggested by the obv. of the second seal, head turned slightly to left: embroidered dress, longer sceptres, that in the r. h. fleur-de-lizé, that in the l. h. topped with the Hand of Justice. Bench-shaped throne with carved scroll ends; rectangular plinth, and cushion for the feet; canopy with a knop at the top.

R. A small counterseal. 2 in. diam. A shield of arms: per pale, dex. FRANCE (MODERN), dimidiated, sin. SCOTLAND. Ensigned with a crown of three fleurs-de-lis with two crosses pattées with pearls at the ends of the top and arms, four bands meeting at top in a jewel.

Carved border.

Wyon, l. c., p. 244, where it is styled the Fourth Seal; not given in Anderson or Laing.

For the seal of Francis II. and Mary, "R. R. Scotorum. Delph. Delphi. Vien.," for the period betw. the marriage, when he was styled the Dauphin King, A.D. 1558, and Francis's accession to the throne of France, 10 July, A.D. 1559, see Anderson, Dipl., pl. lxxxix. The counterseal differs from that figured in Anderson by the fact that it has a legend (see lxxxvii. 62).

For the seal of Francis II. and Mary, "R. R. Francorum, Scot. Angl. et Hyber. A.D. 1559," see Laing, Catal., Nos. 62, 63; Wyon, l. c., pp. 243, 244. Francis II. died 5 Dec. 1560. There are sulph. casts numbered xlvii. 91; and D.C., H. 77, in the Museum Collections, which will be described among the great seals of French sovereigns, to which these properly belong. Wyon describes the counterseal also, but Douët d'Arcq, who describes this seal (Collection de Sceaux, vol. i. p. 280, No. 100) from an impression in the "Administration des Monnaies," states that it is sans contre-sceau. There is an impression of this counterseal numbered lxxxvii. 61.

FOURTH SEAL.

As Dowager Queen of France, after the death of Francis II.

14,833. [A.D. 1564–5.] Uncoloured, semi-opaque: indistinct in parts, the l.-h. side broken off. Nearly 4¼ in. [Cott. ch. xviii. 20.]

Signet.

14,895. [s. d.] Sulph. cast from gold matrix found near Kinross in 1829, and in possession of Mr. Williamson of Kinross. ¾ in. [xlvii. 65.]

A shield of arms: per pale, dex. SCOTLAND, sin. quarterly, 1, 4, FRANCE (MODERN); 2, 3, ENGLAND, within a bordure compony, BEAUFORT.

This seal has sometimes been attributed to Margaret Tudor, Queen of James IV., by error. Laing's Catal., No. 44.

14,896. Sulph. cast. [D.C., B. 22.]

MARY, dau. of the Duke of GUELDRES, Queen of James II. A.D. 1448 or 9, ob. 1462–3.

14,897. [A.D. 1459.] Sulph. cast. 2⅛ in. [xlvii. 69.]

An angel, in a sitting posture, turned slightly to the l.-h. side, with long flowing hair, large wings elevated and open, showing the inner side, and long mantle or dress arranged in folds at the bottom of the seal, supporting before him a shield of arms, with strap or guige over the l. shoulder: per pale, dex. SCOTLAND; sin. per pale, dex. a lion rampant contourné, queue fourchée, crowned, GUELDRES, sin. a lion rampant, JULIERS. Ensigned with an open crown of six fleurs or leaves, with some intermediary pearls. Within a panel crested and cusped on the r.-h. side only.

S : marie : regine : scocie : filie : ducis : gelreñ : et : y . . . . s . .

Laing's Catal., No. 48, and pl. ii., fig. 2.

In the arms of GUELDRES described by Uredius, Sigilla Comitum Flandriæ, 1639, p. Dd. 2, and by Rietstap, the queue fourchée is overlooked.

The pedigree represented by the heraldic bearings is:—

Kingdom of SCOTLAND — James II. = William VIII. Duke of JULICH or JULIERS = Mary, Duchess of GUELDRES — Mary, 2nd daughter.

Ø. A shield of arms: per pale, dex. SCOTLAND, with dimidiated tressure; sin., a cross quarterly counterchanged (or a cross surmounted of another), betw. four quarters, 1. [semé of human hearts] three lions passant guardant [crowned] in pale, DENMARK; 2. a lion rampant crowned, holding in his paws a battle-axe with curved staff, NORWAY; 3. three antique crowns of four spikes each, two and one, SWEDEN (ANCIENT); 4. ten human hearts (or semé of hearts), a lion passant (sometimes guardant, in chief), GOTHES, or GOTHLAND; the base of the whole escutcheon under the cross charged with a dragon or wyvern, tail nowed, wings expanded, THE ENSIGN OF THE VANDALS. On the cross an escutcheon, quarterly, i., two lions passant guardant in pale, SCHLESWIG; ii., an inescutcheon, having a nail fixed in every point in triangle, betw. as many branches, HOLSTEIN (this is blazoned as "a nettle leaf" by Laing); iii., a swan or cygnet gorged with a coronet, STORMERK; iv., a cavalier armed cap-à-pie, brandishing his sword, his helmet plumed, upon a courser, DITMARSH. Over all an inescutcheon, per pale, dex. a cross pattée, DELMENHORST; sin. two bars, OLDENBURG. Ensigned with a crown topped with a cross. Supporters, dex. a unicorn, gorged with a coronet or crown, chained and ringed; sin. a wild-man, wreathed about the loins, holding a club, being the supporters of SCOTLAND and DENMARK respectively. Below them the lower part of a collar of the Thistle, with the pendent badge.

First Seal.

15,344. [A.D. 1189.] Pale green: originally fine, the centre only remaining. About $2\frac{3}{4} \times 2$ in. when perfect. [L.F.C. xxx. 16.]

Pointed oval: a representation of the Virgin Mary, seated on a throne, on her lap the Child, seated, his r. h. elevated in benediction, in the l. h. an open book. For other details, see next, No. 15,345.

15,345. [circ. A.D. 1220.] Sulph. cast from a good impression, chipped at the lower part. 2⅝ × 2 in. [xlvii. 592.]

This supplies many details wanting in the fragmentary original impression described above, No. 15,344.

The figure of the Virgin, crowned, seated on a carved and pinnacled throne, with the Child on her lap. In the l. h. a ball-shaped object, in her r. h. a sceptre, topped with lily-flower and dove. The Child is elevating his r. h. in benediction, in the l. h. an open book. The design is a fine example of Early Scottish art.

For this DRUMMOND seal used by EDMUND DE HASTINGS, Earl of Monteith, and Lord of Enchimeholmok, in the Baron's letter to the Pope, A.D. 1301, see Vol. III., p. 74, No. 10,531. Engraved in Drummond's Hist. of Noble Families (Drummond), p. 5, with the following note :—"This great, coarse, and ill-wrought seal with the Drummond arms is that with which Sir Edmund Hastings, Earl of Monteith, sealed his letter to the Pope, and which he signed as Dominus de Enchimchelmok. These arms are totally dissimilar from any that were ever borne by the Earls of Monteith, or by the family of Hastings." Engraved also in Vetusta Monumenta, vol. 1, pl. xxxii. with legend : "S. Edmundi Hasting Comitatu Mentei."

APPENDIX,

CONSISTING PRINCIPALLY OF SEALS NEWLY ACQUIRED.

SEALS OF SOVEREIGNS.

MALCOLM III., called "Canmore," King of Scots.
A.D., 1057–1093.

False seal of arms.

17,218. [A.D. 1065.] Plaster cast from an imperfect impression in brown wax, in H. M. Record Office, Exchcq. Treas. of Receipts, Scots Documents, Box 87, No. 19. Only the centre remains. About 2¾ in. when perfect. [cvii. 89.]

A shield of arms: a lion rampant, the tail curved inwards, within a double tressure flory counterflory, ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND. Within a cusped panel of which the points remain on the l. h. side.

This seal is believed to be one of the forgeries of the notorious John Harding, see note to No. 14,808, on p. 13. The charter to which it is attached is an acknowledgment by Malcolm of Edward the Confessor, king of England, as his over-lord, 5 June, A.D. 1065. See Bain's Calendar of Documents relating to Scotland, vol. i. p. 1, No. 1.

17,219. Another plaster cast from the same impression. [cix. 38.]

These seals should precede No. 14,767.

JAMES I., King of Scots.

17,220. [A.D. 1424.] Plaster cast from a good impression, with marks of the studs used to steady the matrix, in H. M. Record Office, Chapter House, Scots Documents, Box 102, No. 12. [civ. 60, 61.]

This (which should precede No. 14,816), is an impression of the seal to which attention is directed in the notes to Nos. 14,816, p. 16, and 14,828, p. 19. If accurately attributed to King James I., and not (as may be the case), improperly appended, within recent times, to the document there described, it forms the first seal of the king, and No. 14,816 becomes the second seal.

MURDAC STUART, son of ROBERT, Regent of Scotland; 2nd Duke of Albany, Regent of Scotland, Earl of Lennox, Fife and Menteith, Justiciary of Scotland benorth the Forth; ob. A.D. 1425.

Seal as Regent.

17,221. [A.D. 1423.] Plaster casts from a very imperfect impression in white wax, in H. M. Record Office, Chapter House, Scots Documents, Box 96, No. 17. [cviii. 42, 43.]

Ø. This is an imitation or adaptation of the obv. of the great seal of James I., king of Scots, see No. 14,816. The shield of arms in the niche on the dex. side is wanting; that on the sin. is quarterly; 1, 4, ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND; 2, 3, a fess chequy and label of three points, STUART. The sceptre in the king's hand is converted here into a sword.

Legend wanting.

℟. Similar to the rev. of the great seal of James I., king of Scots, referred to above.

Legend wanting.

This should follow No. 14,816.

JAMES VI., King of Great Britain, etc.

Second Seal for Scotland; after his accession to the throne of England in A.D. 1603.

17,222. Plaster cast from a good impression in yellow wax, preserved at Dunrobin Castle. 5½ in. [cix. 32, 33.]

Ø. On a mount, held up by two spears in saltire, each bearing a small flag flying outwards, charged with dex. the saltire of St. Andrew, sin. the cross of St. George, a shield of arms: quarterly; 1, 4, ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND (tail of the lion turned outward); 2, FRANCE (MODERN) and ENGLAND, quarterly; 3, IRELAND. The shield is begirt below and at the side with the Collar of the Order of the Thistle, with pendant badge of St. Andrew in an oval frame.

Outside this the Garter of the Order of the Garter, inscribed with the customary motto in Roman capital letters:—

HONI · SOIT · QVI · MAL · Y · PENCE.

The pendant George hangs from the end of the Garter. The shield is ensigned with the Royal Crown of Scotland: a jewelled coronet and cap ornamented with crocketed bands or hoops, and with three fleurs-de-lis and two small leaves, or trefoils betw. them. Supporters: dex. a unicorn, crowned, gorged with a coronet, and chained to the mount, the tail coué; sin. a lion rampant, crowned.

✦ IACOBVS ✦ D ✦ G ✦ MAG ✦ BRIT ✦ FRAN ✦ ET ✦ HIB ✦ REX ✠

R. The king on a horse galloping to the r. h. on a hilly mount, probably intended for a landscape of the city of Edinburgh. The rider is crowned, face turned to the r., and wears a breastplate or cuirass, and plate armour, high boots, spur; right hand uplifted, wearing a gauntlet, and holding a broad sword with wide channelled blade, not carried up beyond the field of the design but stopping abruptly at the circle which holds the legend. Saddle; breast-cloth bordered, and charged with a thistle slipped and leaved; caparison on the flanks bordered, and charged with a rose en soleil. In the field, over the horse's head a fleur-de-lis, over the tail, a portcullis, chained and ringed.

✦ DEVS ✦ IVDICIVM ✦ TVVM ✦ REGI ✦ DA ✦ ✠ (Psalm lxxii. 1.)

This seal, which should follow No. 14,840, appears to have been afterw. adopted by king Charles I., see No. 14,841, by alteration of the king's name. In other respects the description there given will stand equally as well as the above.

Wyon, l. c., pp. 247, 248, where it is called the "third seal" of James VI., Engr. in Anderson's Selectus Diplomatum Scotiæ Thesaurus, pl. xciii.

CHARLES I.

There appears to be a transference of ideas in the two seals of this king for Scotland. JAMES VI. used the side which bears the king's effigy riding on a horse as the obverse, and that bearing the achievement of royal arms as the reverse. This is indicated by the legends respectively employed; the royal style and titles appearing on the obv.; the text, motto, or invocation on the rev. Charles I. places the royal style on the heraldic side of the seals, whereby it becomes the obverse, and the motto on that hearing the mounted effigy, thereby making it the reverse. Hence the arrangement of Ø. and Ꝛ. in the descriptions of Nos. 14,841, 14,842, must be corrected. The same remarks apply to the description of the seal of OLIVER, No. 14,844.

CHARLES II., King of Scotland, England, etc. A.D. 1660.

Seal for Scotland.

17,223. Plaster casts from a fairly good impression, indistinct in places. 5¾ in. [cix. 34, 35.]

Ø. Resembles in design the rev. of the Great Seal of Charles I., No. 14,842, of which it is a good copy, varying in some of the minuter details, and in the measurements and distances betw. some of the accessories.

CAROLVS · II · D G · [SCOT]IÆ · ANGLIÆ · FRAN · ET · HIBERNIÆ · REX · FIDEI · DEFENSOR ·

Ꝛ. The king on a saddled horse galloping to the l. h., on a mount. Long sword held erect, scabbard, plate armour, loose sash, feathers in bonnet. The landscape below and in the background represents the city and environs of Edinburgh. In the field, over the horse's tail a thistle flower, slipped and leaved, ensigned with crown.

Legend on a ribbon :—

IVSTITIA ✦ ET VERITAS 1660.

Engr. in Anderson, Selectus Diplomatum Scotiæ Thesaurus, pl. xcv. Not described by Laing or Wyon.

This and the next three seals should follow, No. 14,846.

WILLIAM (II.), III. and MARY II., King and Queen of Scotland, England, etc. A.D. 1689.

Seal for Scotland.

17,224. Plaster casts from a good but cracked impression, indistinct in parts. 6 in. [cix. 36, 37.]

Ø. A shield of the Royal Arms of William and Mary for Scotland : quarterly ; 1, 4, SCOTLAND (lion's tail curved inwards) ; 2, 3, FRANCE (MODERN), and ENGLAND quarterly ; 4, IRELAND ; over all an escutcheon of NASSAU (see No. 628). Encircled with the Collar of the Order of the Thistle with pendant badge, and the Garter with inscribed motto and George. Supporters, dex. a unicorn, sin. a lion rampant guardant, crowned, etc., as before, each holding a spear and flag as described before. Below the Garter, on the dex. a thistle branch, on the sin. a rose branch, each slipped and leaved. Below these, and behind the George, a label or ribbon inscribed with the royal motto:—

DIEV · ET · MON · DROIT.

.... LIEL · II · ET · MARIA · D · G · SCOT · ANG .....
ET · REG · FID · D ·

The numeral II. after the king's name in the legend, is correctly applied to William III. of England, there having been but one previous king of Scots thus named.

℟. The king in classical armour, with flowing cloak and sword, riding on a horse springing to the r. h., and accompanied by the queen, in the background, also riding. On a landscape showing the city and environs of Edinburgh. The design is derived from, and is a fairly correct copy of, the rev. of the Great Seal of William and Mary for England, see No. 628, Vol. i. p. 70. In the field over the horse's tail a flower, slipped and leaved, ensigned with a crown.

Legend on a ribbon:—

DEO ✠ ℣ ✠ FAVENTE ✠ ℣ ✠ 1689.

Carved border.

Engr. in Anderson, Selectus Diplomatum Scotiæ Thesaurus, pl. xcvii.

GEORGE I., King of Scotland, England, etc.

Seal for Scotland, A.D. 1717.

17,225. Plaster cast from a somewhat blurred impression. 5¾ in. [cix. 39.]

Ø. Wanting.

℟. The king riding on a horse springing to the r. h. Cuirass, long sword, cloak fastened at the shoulder and flying outwards to the l. h. On a mount with foliage and flowers in the foreground; in the background a landscape of the city and environs of Edinburgh. The design appears somewhat similar to the rev. of the great seal of George II. for ENGLAND. In the field over the horse's tail a thistle and rose, leaved, and grafted on one stem.

Legend, the concluding part of the royal style of George I.:—

BRUNSWIC ✦ ET ✦ LUNEN ✦ DUX ✦ SACRI ✦ ROM ✦ IMP ✦
ARCHITHESAU ✦ ET ✦ PRINC ✦ ELECTOR ✦ &c. 1717.

Carved border.

GEORGE II., King of Great Britain, etc.

Seal for Scotland, A.D. 1729.

17,226. Plaster casts from a cracked impression, originally fine, now injured by pressure in some parts, the edge imperfect. 5¾ in. [cix. 42, 43.]

Ø. A shield of the ROYAL ARMS of Great Britain as used by king George I. (see No. 644, Vol. i. p. 73), with transposition of the arms of SCOTLAND and ENGLAND in the first quarter. Collar of the Order of the Thistle, and pendant; Garter and George; crown with label beneath it inscribed

IN · DEFENCE.

Supporters, lances, flags, thistle branch, rose branch; ribbon with Royal motto, etc., all as in No. 17,224, but from variant designs.

GEORGIVS · . . . . . ITANNIÆ · FRANCIÆ · ET · HIBERNIÆ · REX · FIDEI · DEFENSOR ·

R. The king riding on a horse springing to the r. Cuirass and sword, cloak fastened at the shoulder and flying outwards to the l. h. On a mount with foliage and flowers in the foreground; in the background a landscape of the city and environs of Edinburgh. In the field, over the horse's tail, a thistle and a rose, leaved, and grafted on one stem.

Legend in continuation of the Royal style from the obv.:—

BRUNSWICEN · ET · LUNEB · DUX · SACRI · ROM · IMP · ARC[HI] · THESAU · ET · PRINC · ELECTOR &c. 1729.

GEORGE III., King of the Britains, etc.

Second Seal for Scotland, after A.D. 1800.

17,227. Plaster casts from a fine impression, parts having however been shaken or moved while being made. 6 in. [cix. 44, 45.]

Ø. Here the re-transfer of the mounted figure of the king to the obv. takes place. The king, in cuirass of plate armour, etc., with sword held over the r. shoulder, and flowing sash with long ends, riding on a horse pacing to the r. h., with saddle and embroidered saddle-cloth, etc., on a mount adorned with a thistle-plant and herbage in the foreground. The background lightly filled in with a distant view of the Castle and environs of the City of Edinburgh.

GEORGIUS TERTIUS DEI GRATIA BRITANNIARUM REX FIDEI DEFENSOR.

This appears to be, for the most part, an adaptation or imitation of the obv. of the Great Seal of George III. for Great Britain, No. 688, Vol. i. p. 79.

R. An ornamentally shaped shield of the ROYAL ARMS of GEORGE III. for SCOTLAND used after A.D. 1800 when the use of the ROYAL ARMS OF FRANCE was discarded, viz. quarterly; 1, 4, SCOTLAND, 2, ENGLAND, 3, IRELAND; over all an escutcheon of pretence, BRUNSWICK impaling LÜNEBERG, on a point in point SAXONY, ensigned with an imperial crown (called by Burke, Gen. Arm., p. lx. an "Electoral Bonnet," and drawn as such), and surmounted by an escutcheon of CHARLEMAGNE, for the Arch-Treasurer of the Holy Roman Empire. Cf. No. 685, Vol. i. p. 79.

The shield is encircled with the Collar of the Order of the Thistle with oval pendant badge of St. Andrew standing bound in front of his saltire cross. This is in turn encircled with the Garter, inscribed with the customary motto, and with the George depending below the badge described above. Ensigned with a crown, the labels or ribbons of which are inscribed:—

IN DEFENCE.

Below the badge of St. Andrew, on the dex. a thistle flower and shamrock or trefoil, on the sin. a rose, each slipped and leaved. Supporters, dex., an unicorn, sin., a lion rampant guardant, each crowned, etc., as in previous seals, and holding lances with flags bearing the UNION JACK, or united crosses, as in No. 688. The supporters rest upon a carved scroll or estrade, over which is laid a ribbon inscribed with the Royal motto:—

DIEU · ET MON DROIT.

Legend in continuation of the Royal style:—

ET IN TERRA ECCLESIÆ ANGLICANÆ ET HIBERNICÆ SUPREMUM CAPUT.

Preceded by an uncertain device.

Carved borders.

Note that this seal was probably made after 1817, because the impression of a seal No. 14,847, p. 25, attached to a charter dated in that year, seventeen years after the Union, bears the shield of arms which was abandoned in 1800. This should follow No. 14,848.

Ø. Identical with the rev. of the Great Seal of the king for England, see No. 701, Vol. i., p. 81.

℟. A copy of the rev. of the Great Seal of George IV. for Scotland, see No. 14,850, with several small variants in the design; the principal of which are the design in the badges of the Orders of the Thistle and Garter. Here St. Andrew bears a nimbus and stands behind his saltire cross, holding it up with his hands; in that of George IV., the Saint has a radiancy over the head, and is in front of the saltire. The attitude of St. George in combat with the dragon differs from that on George IV.'s seal. The treatment of the crosses on the flags held up on lances by the supporters in the seals of George IV. and William IV. is identical, but differs from that of previous seals.

17,232. [A.D. 1372.] Plaster cast from a fine, but very imperfect impression now injured by pressure; in H.M. Record Office, Chapter House, Scots Documents, Box 95, No. 7. About 1¾ in. when perfect. [cviii. 54.]

The Queen standing nearly full-face, wearing royal robes, crowned, and with head-attire; in the r. h. a sceptre fleury. Overhead a shield of the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND, supported by two lions rampant or salient guardant, the tail betw. the hind legs. These supporters stand, each on a shield of arms: dex. a fess chequy, STUART, and in chief a label of five points (two of which are wanting as the shield is imperfect), sin. barry nebuly of six, for LOGIE. The background diapered with a reticulated pattern lozengy, having a small quatrefoil in each interstitial space. Within a quadrilobe or panel of four lobes, ornamented along the inner edge with small flowers, or perhaps quatrefoils, and having two pairs of elegantly designed finials or crockets at the junctions of the two side lobes with that in base.

GEORGE III.

17,233. Proof impressions in red composition from the silver matrices preserved in the Department of Antiquities. $1\frac{3}{16}$ in. [cix. 53, 54.]

Ø. A reduced copy of the design of the reverse of the Great Seal of George III. for Great Britain described in Vol. I., p. 79, No. 688. The Royal Arms as used by George III. after A.D. 1800, within the Garter, over the throne, are adapted to SCOTLAND by placing the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND in the 1st and 4th quarters, and the Royal Arms of England in the 3rd quarter.

GEORGIUS TERTIUS DEI GRATIA BRITANNIARUM REX FIDEI DEFENSOR.

R. An ornamental shield of arms: field with diagonal lines indicating vert fretty, on each point of meeting of the lines, a roundle. This is charged with a shield of the ROYAL ARMS OF SCOTLAND, as adapted from the ROYAL ARMS OF GREAT BRITAIN used by George III. subsequently to A.D. 1800 in the manner described above for the obv. of this seal. Encircled with the collar of the Order of the Thistle with pendant badge bearing St. Andrew standing behind his saltire cross. This in turn is encircled with a Garter inscribed with the customary motto, and with pendant George. Ensigned with a royal crown. Supporters, dex. an antelope, sin. a stag, each gorged with a coronet, chained and ringed; standing on a carved floral design or estrade over which is thrown a ribbon inscribed:—

SIGIL · SCACCARII · DOM · REGIS.

with conclusion:

on the background of the seal. Betw. the ribbon and the Garter, a large thistle, small rose, and shamrock on the dex., and a large rose, small thistle, and shamrock on the sin. side, slipped and leaved.

Legend in continuation of the royal style :—

GEORGE IV.

17,234. Proof impressions in red composition from the silver matrices preserved in the Department of Antiquities. $4\frac{3}{8}$ in. [cix. 55, 56.]

Ø. A reduced copy of the design of the obv. of the great seal of George IV. for GREAT BRITAIN, described in Vol. I. p. 80, No. 690. The Royal Arms have not in this seal been adapted to SCOTLAND, but the branches about it are of thistle flowers, slipped and leaved.

GEORGIUS QUARTUS DEI GRATIA BRITANNIARUM REX FIDEI DEFENSOR.

℟. Very similar to the design of the rev. of the seal of George III. for the Court of EXCHEQUER OF SCOTLAND, No. 17,233, but from a different matrix, with the proportions of many details varying from it. From the uppermost feet of the supporters, where they touch the Garter, spring two branches of myrtle. The omission of the tails of the lions in the quarterings of SCOTLAND, BRUNSWICK, and LÜNEBERG, is due to a curious oversight.

Inscription on the large ribbon in base :—

SIGIL · SCACCAR[II] · DOM · REGIS.

And on a shorter ribbon below it :—

IN SCOTIA.

In place of the legend a chaplet of acorns, oak-leaves, thistles, and thistle leaves.

℞. Very similar to the design of the rev. of the seal of George IV. for the Court of EXCHEQUER OF SCOTLAND, No. 17,234, but from a different matrix with the proportions of many details varying from it, and some of the accessories treated differently. The tails are restored to the lions in the shield of arms, but the tail of the lion in the quarters for SCOTLAND is turned outwards.

✠ S' : MAG̃RI : WILL'I : DC̄I : WISCART.

This seal is to be attributed to Master WILLIAM WISHART, or WISCART, before he became Bishop of St. Andrew's. He was Archdeacon of St. Andrew's, and occurs as Chancellor of the kingdom of Scotland in 1256, and 1261.

These two seals should follow No. 14,924.

ARCHBISHOP OF ST. ANDREWS.

JAMES STUART.

17,242. Plaster cast from a good impression. [cvii. 7.]

Same as No. 14,938, but the shield in base is quarterly, the arms being apparently the same as on the "Sigillum Rotundum" of Archbishop WILLIAM SCHIVEZ, No. 14,937, the predecessor of James Stuart. Possibly this seal was made for Archbishop Schivez, and on the accession of James Stuart, the legend only was altered, but the arms allowed by an oversight to remain. Subsequently the arms in the shield were erased, as in No. 14,938, which then represents the second state of the seal.

This should precede No. 14,938.

Later seal.

17,243. Plaster cast from a good impression. $4\frac{1}{4} \times 2\frac{3}{8}$ in. [cvii. 8.]

Pointed oval. This is a copy of the previous seal, poorly executed. The shield of arms in the base bears SCOTLAND. (lion's tail curved inwards), within an orle or bordure of eight roses, for STUART. On each of the plinths, or drums, of the pillars betw. the three niches in base is a cherubic figure.

A.D. 1248–circ. 1256.

17,246. Plaster casts from a fine impression. 2¾ × 1½ in. [cvii. 48, 49.]

Ø. Pointed oval: the bishop, full-length, with episcopal attire, apparel, and embroidered amice, standing on a convex footboard, arch, or inverted crescent, in profile to the r., with mitre furnished with long streamer-ties behind the neck, and holding in the l. h. a pastoral staff or crozier, the curve turned outwards; elevating the r. h. in the act of benediction. The attitude of the figure is strongly suggestive of Roger, Bishop of St. Andrews, A.D. 1193, No. 14,920, see pl. 6; Walter, Bishop of Glasgow, A.D. 1227, No. 15,110; Clement, Bishop of Dunblane, A.D. 1233, No. 17,258; and Bricius, Bishop of Moray, circ. A.D. 1208, No. 15,062. From the recurrence of this design, which is one of extreme beauty and elegance, it would appear that these four seals, and probably others not extant, are the work of the same seal engraver or derived from the same source. In the field on the dex. side a crescent, on the sin. side two pellets arranged like a colon. Below the footboard or crescent an indistinct device, possibly the impression of an antique gem.

Ø. The Queen in robes of majesty, crowned, holding sceptre and orb; seated on a carved throne under a circular canopy with curtains thrown round side-shafts. At the dex. side, on a short projection, a lion rampant, holding a banner-flag charged with a harp, IRELAND, on the sin. a dragon holding a similar flag, charged with three crowns in pale, for the KINGDOM OF IRELAND (see Chalmer's Caledonia, vol. i. p. 463). This must be distinguished from the shield of arms bearing three crowns, two and one, seen in the obv. of the second Great Seal of king Henry IV., Vol. i. p. 31, No. 259, which has been attributed to St. Edmund. Whether this shield in Henry IV.'s seal is rightly or wrongly attributed to St. Edmund may be open to question; especially so, when it is observed that all the other heraldic bearings therein refer to territorial dominion, and that the King styled himself Dominus Hibernie, yet omitted to introduce into his seal any armorial illustration of that claim, unless the coat under observation be intended for IRELAND. Harl. MS. 4039, attributes three crowns to the KINGDOM OF MUNSTER.
